newest and most valuable information on the subject.

Also, Importer of the Double Anchor Dutch Bolting Cloth, French Bleach and Esopus MILLS STONES, Double Turbine Water Wheels, and Equipment of Bolting, &c.

—Price, a small envelope, only 6cts.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the plain exposition of all classes may be radically curd without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife;

pointing out a mode of cure at once simple,

certain and effectual, by means of which every man can, without what his condition may be, make himself cheaply, privately, and rapidly, well.

This Lecture should be in the hands

Proceedings of the Council.

JACKSONVILLE ALA.

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1871.

Council Chamber.

Present—
Wm. Penn, J. D. Privett, L. W. Grant, E. L. Woodward, and Jas. S. Montgomery, Councilmen.

The Intendant being absent, J. D. Privett was called to the chair.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

A written proposition was received from Mr. Clark to bring water from the town spring to the public square—After informed discussion, the proposition was taken into consideration, to be decided at a future meeting.

By motion a committee was appointed to make a survey and ascertain the distance between the mountain spring and the public square to furnish specific and exact bids to bring water from both springs.

On motion a committee was appointed to draw a plan and lay off 300 tax lots.

Adjourned.

J. D. S. MONTGOMERY, Secy.

The Montgomery Times, (Secy's) discontinued organ notices &c. for the fact that the Representatives of the No. 14 Legislature left one Whims, a popular member, so as to give them sufficient time to get up in each and assist in the del Ball Board for five years.

This reminds us that somebody bought up our entire Radical Legislature, however far and that many of them now have soft places in the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad.

The Young Commercial establishment was bought on the Rome Daily and will be sure to do both offices, we presume, in one. This will largely increase the circulation of the Commercial and reader it more probable than ever as an advertising medium. The Commercial deserves all the success it can find.

The Chattanooga Times thinks it takes some as well as money to build such a road as the Alabama and Chattanooga.

"And when the money runs short," the fellow might have added, "another legislature is required, and that is the Yankee base and impudence that will totally necessitate for bad buy up a new Radical Legislature." $2,000,000, not $100,000.

The wheat crop in this county is reported as doing so well as might be wished.

The dispossessors inform us that the members of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad are forcing it into bankruptcy. This is another page in the chapter of history that has marked the dealing of this Yankee company with our State from the day it carpetbagged among us. Our Govt. is succeeded in bankrupting the State will have very heavily. Of course the friends of the Road are the "twinkies" who are forcing the bankruptcy.

On the evening previous we received a very written invitation to attend the Bayou supper, given at the Academy, the Children of our Female School. The affair was reverberate, the table being tastefully spread and the happy occasion classical. The evening passed most delightfully with every one present. We were about to express the wish that life might be all May-day when along came a fragment from a must be that poem entitled "The Children" ex parte better.

"Look not a life for the dead ones, My heart, as others have done; But that life may just enough shall, To temper the glare of the sun."

We omitted to mention, last week, the "big party" at the residence of Mrs. Morris. The "stags," told us they had a most elegant time. "Mighty fine eatting" said one hungry fellow, who was plating out. Well they may have had a hearty meal as we are, we can't see where the fine time came in without "glory". It seems to us that party without "glory" would be like sweetmeats with the tasteless skin.

Prof. A. Craig lectured in the Court House some nights ago on Phrenology, the Pacific Slope &c. Some of the crew didn't like his style and pitched him over an egg or two, just to settle his edifice with. The Professor turned out not a very "Pacific" character and never say "want for" one of the party whom he had identified, with a much larger sized Navy revolver. He didn't get a chance to let it off but in the course of his proceedings he violated the ordinances of the town. This he was apprised of and before trial time came "slept" in real justice.

Joking aside though, we do most heartily condemn such treatment of strangers, as he was subjected to, the night of his lecture. It is not hospitality. If people go to any kind of an exhibition or lecture and do not like it, the best plan is to leave. If importers consider the latter way is to leave their empty houses.

The spring flights continue with undiminished vigor. Several fine old Irish shillings have contributed to enliven the dullness of the times lately.

A "feudal man" and a white man put up with our Mar. at the Calabash on Wednesday evening and remained with him until morning. The Mayor found out next morning that the negro had been "out" too near private houses and that the white man had been "cutting up powerful". The white man was proven to be innocent.

POSITIVELY LAST NOTICE.

Parties indebted to J. B. TURNER are notified that this shall be their last call through this channel, and if such parties do not come forward promptly and make settlement with J. B. TURNER, at the office of M. J. TURNER & Son, may expect to be visited by an Officer.

We commend them to the patronage of our people.

In addition to our notice last week of the advertisement of B. L. Wyman, Dealer in Maize, Agricultural Implements &c., in Montgomery, Ala., we desire to see that we have recently had personal dealings with his gentleman to himself, what he knows too much.

LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, May 1.—Several hundred persons excursioned from Carre crevasses yesterday.

The levee on either side is still giving way slowly, though unceasing labor is being made to stop a further spread. The roar of the current at the break can be heard more than a mile.

Well informed planters estimate that their loss will exceed twenty thousand bushels of sugar.

An affray occurred yesterday between Jules V. Phillips and LaMeraux in which the latter was shot and killed.

Later in the evening a difficulty occurred between two colored men, John Stevens and Isaac Jackson, which resulted in the fatal stabbing of Jackson. He died in fifteen minutes. Both murderers were arrested.

FRANCE.

Paris, May 1.—The firing last night was fearful, and apparently utterly reckless.—Nothing to compare with it has occurred since the commencement of the civil war.

The city is greatly excited and alarmed. Groups of frightened people are in every street, discussing the state of affairs.

Gen. Okolowitz's wound is a very severe one, and his recovery is doubtful.

The delegates from the Masonic Lodges of Paris have returned from Versailles unable to accomplish anything. They report that Thiers expresses the opinion that peaceful arrangements with the Paris Commune impossible.

Versailles, May 1.—A large number of troops moved towards Paris to-day as reinforcements to the army of investment.

Editors of all moderate journals in Paris have been ordered proscribed, by Commune, and are leaving the city as rapidly as possible.

Private telegraphing in Paris again entirely stopped.

Rossel, in accepting the insurgent ministry of war, says "he shall have need of absolute co-operation of Commune troops and the people of Paris."

The provisional elections in all parts of France, have resulted in the choice of conservative Republicans.

The negotiations for the surrender of Issy failed. The bonbardment was renewed, and is now very violent.

An Interior View of the Commune Government of Paris.

*From a Private Letter Composed to the Sac.*

PARTS, April 19.—We went to Neuilly on Friday evening after the battle, but experienced so much trouble and met with such an indecent reception from the Communists that we immediately left, bringing all our wagons, at which I am not particularly pleased; as Mr. Obregon must always surround our ambulances around the time.

Moreover, the insurgents are very rough, and make no bones about insulting and maltreating any one they consider a spy. They walk into any house and seize whatever they please. They have become rascals and ruffians, too, I guess, from eating too much dog during the siege. The respectable part of the community is completely cowed. I am confident that were a full vote taken to-day as to who should rule, Napoleon would receive the majority.

Napoleon and his policy could have no better justification than what has lately transpired. I trust you will let the Commune had passed a law demanding rents from paying their rent, as I have resolved to pay for four months.

I endorse this act of theirs. The day after the publication of the law the office of the Commune was invaded by a host of persons anxious to avail themselves of it. The scene was most ludicrous. The tenants, among who were women, ladies of the highest respectability, lett notre maison, students, etc., sat down on one side of the room, and on the other all the Mr. and Mrs. Tardies. If you could have witness to the scene that ensued, I think you would have killed yourself with laughter.

The Commission at first heard both sides, and in every instance decided in favor of the tenant. But this proved to be the last straw, and he called us all in and said that the majority of the law must be upheld; that we were to demand our rents and report any insubordinate proprietors. One stupid woman began to thank him, saying she was much pleased at this, as she did not think the Commune would last long if it went on that way.

"What?" thundered the Commissaire, "do you pretend, Madame, to say that the best government the world ever saw elected by the people, will not exist?"

"Sir, I only stated that my impression—

"Madame, be kind enough not to state your impression."

"I beg pardon, sir, I merely repeated what I had heard."

"Madame, I don't want to hear any such repetitions. The Commune has been elected by the people and must be eternal. You know what you have to do."

—Whitefield and the Thunder-Sermon.—On one occasion, Mr. Whitefield was preaching in Boston, on the wonders of creation, providence and redemption, when a violent tempest of thunder and lightning came on. In the midst of the sermon it attained to so alarming a height that the congregation sat in almost breathless awe.—The preacher closed his notebook, and stepped into one of the wings of the desk, fell on his knees, and with much feeling and due tact, repeated:

"Hark! the Eternal reads the sky!

A mighty voice before him goes—

A voice of music to his friends,

But threatening thunder to his foes,

Come, children, to your Father's arms;

Thine heart gives birth to nothing but

And my revenging fury ceases."

One of the most remarkable personal encounters on record occurred recently at Jefferson Texas, resulting in the death of two notorious ruffians. One shot the other fatally through the body and then ran. The dying man pursued, without halting the hand of death upon him, or the eternity upon whose brink he receded, and with his last agonies of exertion emptied his revolver at his enemy, inflicting wounds which proved instantly fatal, after which he himself almost instantaneously expired.

JOSEPH MONTGOMERY, Secy.

Pro tem.

It is with profound regret that we announce the death of Mrs. G. I. Turney, who died on Thursday morning the 11th inst., after a long illness. Only a short time ago, comparatively, her death has cast the entire gloom over this entire community, among whom she has from her childhood been known and beloved. United with an intelligent and full of promise, she possessed a Christian spirit of meekness and devotion that drew around her the warm affection of all the good of our community. The husband and relatives of the deceased have our warmest sympathy.

The irrepressible Jack Williams (M. J. Williams, formerly of the Selma "Times") has brought out the interest of Mr. A. R. Henderson in the Montgomery Mail, and has by the consent of Mr. W. W. Swords, consolidated that journal with the Montgomery Advertiser. What the little of new paper will be we are not yet informed, but we presume it will be "Advertiser & Mail." As to what editorial changes this arrangement will effect, we are also in ignorance, but if Williams and Swords will allow we hope it will not result in the loss of Col. Robt. Tyler to the press in Alabama. We regard Col. Tyler as one of the ablest, if not the ablest editor that has wielded a pen in the State within the last quarter of a century, and one that, if he continues to write, untrammeled, will do impress his peculiar views upon the people of the State, that the "Advertiser & Mail" will become the source from which the Democracy will draw its most healthy inspiration—the leader—the guide—the great Democratic organ.

The Legislature of Connecticut, Radical, has declared Jewell, the Radical candidate, Governor, over English (Democrat) though English received a fair majority of all the votes cast, as decided by the proper official whose duty it is to supervise such elections. The Yankee Radicals are taking pattern after our Southern Carpet-baggers. In fact they are likely to copy the South throughout, for they now have the Ku-Klux. We hope the President will soon introduce some of them into the mysteries of our country to the following, while we associate from our conquisitry of the Mass.

We are glad to notice, as we do in our exchanges, that a general appeal is being made by the press in behalf of our anti-slavery cause, and we trust every child, whose feelings have been astirred with this, will except away in a single night. On their arrival, if for no other purpose, we trust these young appeals will result in a general contribution of money, groceries, clothing for service upon a few volunteers. In confirmation of the General complaints that reinforcements were not granted to him when many more needed, and, in point of fact, that he was responsible of the failure of the rebels, approaching to the fortifications from insertion, and demanded a set to his men.

THE LOCAL EDITOR.

What an infatuation follows the local editor is to be sure, and how much is expected of him. We may buy a thousand copies of his paper, but it is evidently satisfactory. It is said that it saves the work of two hands and one horse in planting, but that this is the least of it, for when it comes to "chopping it out," so evenly is it sowed, that half the trash, and time is saved in this. It will save double its price in one small crop of cotton, and will last for twenty years. It is now worth $25 per acre. Next season we shall ask the Manufacturer's price of $30.00. The purchaser will make Ten Dollars by buying now—nearly one third the real price of the machine.

THE LOCAL EDITOR.

We regret to announce that Fielding Snow, one of the oldest and most esteemed citizens of Jacksonville, has, for some time, been very sick with sickness. It is the earnest wish of all our people that he may be spared yet many years among us.

As the Summers approach, we extend on behalf of the people of Jacksonville, a most cordial invitation to the people of Selma and Montgomery to spend the hot months with us. We are always perfectly cool here, and are surrounded with mineral springs.

Springs. Cures.

On enquiry in the proper quarter, we learn that several cases of public importance were submitted at the last term, in which opinions will probably be delivered at the coming term. Among these cases is that of Tremmel et al., v. Pennington et al. which involves the Constitutionality of the Act of the General Assembly authorizing cities, counties and towns to subscribe to the capital stock of Rail Roads. This case has been thoroughly argued by some of our ablest lawyers, and the decision is awaited with considerable interest.

The case of Bob Gully vs. The State, in which the defendant was sentenced to be hung by the lower Court, will have to be decided at the present term.

The civil docket is not so heavy as the last term, the criminal docket shows some trifling appeals to the present term.—Mont. Ad.

Very Respectfully,
S. A. WYATT.

Millions of fruit will be made in this portion of the State, but other crops will fall short, we fear, if the rains continue

A Notice Recitation.

[From the Montgomery Mail.] From the Mail of May 11th, we learn that the noble and generous-hearted firm of Leffland & Co., of this city have just sold the iron outfit which before had been taken by the posses of Montgomery and enticed themselves to the thence, not only of the suffering people of "Pike," but of all others of a merely and liberally ewe piece, it is needless to add that this deed of Leffland & Co. doesn't surprise us. It is just what we expected of them and just what their well-known character of honor and abd gave us the right to expect. But here is what our able Ad. contemporary has to say on the subject:

"The Montgomery Advertiser and Mail, and especially the latter paper, have made a earnest and frequent appeals in behalf of the sufferers by the late tornado, and as one of the fruits of these appeals we have received a letter from the well-known firm of Leffland & Co., Whole sale Dealers in Groceries and Dry Goods, 36, 38, & 40, Commerce Street, Montgomery, in which this liberal firm says:

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.
SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1871.

"Good will to all men that pay promptly. Devotees to news and making money."

The above is the motto of a Western paper. It is refreshing for its honesty. The editor is no doubt a good card. We would like to form his acquaintance. He hates a sneaking, non-paying subscriber as bad as Simon Snipes hates "Yaller legs." He is no hypocrite. He does not attempt to disguise the fact that he has no good feeling for those who do not "pay promptly." In this he differs from some of us poor demagogic devils who will "smile and smile" in the face of some earless specimen of humanity, who has been keeping us out of the enjoyment of the fruits of three or four year's honest toil; and who will pretend that we think as much of him as we do of those hearty, solid, honest old prompt-paying fellows—the salt of the earth! But we don't do it. Go to our bottom and you will find we don't do it. Whenever an editor finds out that a man wants his labor for nothing, and discovers him making as many quirks and turns to avoid the payment of an honest debt of $2 or $3, as would gain an ordinary lawsuit, he is bound to despise him, and does it. Why we know men who will go around to the merchants every year regularly and settle off their bill of hundreds of dollars; and then come whining around the editor, the fruits of whose labors they have enjoyed all the year, with a, "I will try and square up that little matter between us soon." It is always a "little" matter with these sort of men; but yet they take as much trouble to avoid the settlement of that "little matter" as if thousands were at stake. The fact is, some men, we know, have a chronic aversion to paying for a newspaper. Why we cannot tell. It is not because they are stingy; for we have known them to come into town and "treat" away twice the amount of their bill with the printer, and then make excuse for not paying on the score of tight times. They seem to have an idea that the printer don't need money—that his business just runs itself; that he can carry it on, puff them, puff their section, labor, sweat, blow, without pay, and yet they are the most exacting men on the books of the printer. Everything has to come up just right, or they make complaint. They seem to enjoy, falling in occasionally, just to ask the editor to "look at the amount of my bill," and then after the poor eager, delighted devil, has found it and with a smile that is bland, states the amount, to turn off with "Oh, it's smaller than I thought. Well I'll call in some day and settle it off." They think an editor should not be so sordid as to think for a moment of aceninating the filthy lucre. They think he should find his highest employment in bringing on Smith's cow, or Jones' pig, while his own household goes to grass. These are the kind of men who would starve a minister until hunger compelled the poor fellow to ask a modicum of his wages, and then accuse him of being worldly minded. They are the great clogs on all enterprises. They are the rubbish that dam up the stream of commerce, and stop the healthy flow of money. They are annoyances. They are in the way. They are a curse to the business of the society in which they move. We intend to lop off a great many of them from the books of the REPUBLICAN.

Meeting of Co. "G."—Reunion.

On last Monday, agreeable to a call made in the Jacksonville Republican, Co. "G." 10th Alabama Regiment met in Jacksonville.

On motion, Gen. Wm H. Forney was called to the chair and Adjutant L. W. Grant was requested to act as Secretary. After taking the chair, the General, in a brief but eloquent little speech, explained the object of the meeting.

It was determined to call the preliminary Regimental meeting of delegates from the companies, to be held in Jacksonville, for the 3rd day of June. On motion the following named members of Co. "G." were appointed as delegates to attend such meeting at that time:

A. P. Carruth, Pete Thompson, Jno D. Walker, N. J. Stephens, Thomas R. Neighbors, Sam'l McCallum, Thomas Gaul, Wm Littlejohn, Sam'l Hodges, Benj Hodges, James M. Monroe, Wm Needell, A. J. West, Hardy Smith, Tom Jeff, Walker, John A. Cobb, J. M. Renfro, G. L. Turnley, L. W. Grant, R. D. Williams, Henry A. Farms, E. A. Hall, John Hall, N. J. Bolton, Wm J. Bolton, J. W. Mackey, Slater Crawford, H. F. Vernon, John Letta, John Bonds, Ransom Wyly, H. W. Lettrell, Isaac Swan.

On motion of Capt. James B. Farmer, the chairman was added to the list of delegates.

It was the unanimously expressed wish of the meeting that Gen. Jno H. Forney be present and preside at the preliminary meeting of the Regiment to be held in Jacksonville, June 3rd.

After a few well timed and touching remarks from Capt. J. M. Renfro, the meeting adjourned.

Gen. Wm H. FORNEY, Chm'r.

L. W. GRANT, Sec'y.

We have been requested by an old Sergeant of Company D, 10th Alabama Regiment, to say that there will be a meeting of that company at Alexandria on Thursday 25th inst. All members of the company are requested to be in attendance.

E. Johnson & Co., of Selma, are sending goods to this place, and those who have purchased of them are well pleased both with the price and quality. One of our ladies received a bill of one hundred dollars worth, some days ago. Our friend John Woodward is with them, ready to fill orders from Calhoun customers.

"Brick" Pomeroys Divorce.

"Beast" Butler wrote a letter to the New York Herald not long ago, in which he said that Mrs. M. M. Pomeroys desire to engage his services as counsel in her divorce suit against her husband, and that he should have charged her no fee if he could not have made it out of "Brick" in person. The impudent old thief went on to say,

"I am glad to be informed that, the fact of my employment having become known to her husband, he has concluded to make a settlement with her, giving her $20,000 in cash, as you inform me and paying $600 a year towards the education of their child.

The "Beast" claims that Mr. Pomeroys, being rich should pay him something, but consoles with himself with the reflection that if his employment has caused "Brick" to take the money that ought to go to him and apply it in providing for the divorced lady, he shall have the satisfaction of knowing that while "Brick" has abused him, he in fact supporting "Brick's" family—to all of which Pomeroys says in reply,

Mrs. Pomeroys never applied to B. F. Butler as above stated; never retained him as counsel for any suit; never asked his advice in any matter. On learning that the writer of this and the lady in question had lived apart since 1861, he wrote to her offering his services to act as counsel in any matters she would retain him for. To this letter from him no attention was paid, the more as there was no necessity for his aid or counsel as there is no truth in the statement that the persons were in distress or need.

They have lived apart, he says, since 1861, and a final separation has been agreed upon and a settlement of $20,000 made for her benefit.

Without the aid, influence or assistance of B. F. Butler or any other meddler in the affairs of a most estimable lady, who neither needs nor asks the friendship of such a person, or financial assistance from any quarter.

The statement of Mr. Pomeroys is verified by Mr. C. E. Fritchell of Union Square. Mr. Wm. G. Bussey, of Wall street, to whom Beast Butler's letter was addressed says:

The facts as published are correct, but I deem it may professional duty to state in addition that the application for divorce was solely on the ground of desertion and that there has been no imputation of immoral conduct on the part of Mr. Pomeroys; neither has there been in the defense any charge of any kind brought against Mrs. Pomeroys, questioning her character as a wife, or lady.

The New York Democrat, which is supposed to have intimate relations with Mrs. Pomeroys, has the following on the same subject:

The telegraph announces that a decree of divorce between Mark M. (Brick) Pomeroys and his wife Anna, has been granted in the circuit court Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. Pomeroys is charged with no crime, no abuse of his wife, no failure to properly provide for his family, but there was an incompatibility of temper that rendered the lives of both unhappy, a want of sympathy that all efforts had failed to restore.

For ten years they have not lived together, but during all that time Mrs. Pomeroys has never known the want of any comfort it was in the power of her husband to provide. He has been prosperous, but in his prosperity the wife and daughter, though absent, have never been forgotten or neglected. Few have ever suffered as has Mark Pomeroys in all these years; he has been under the ban of society that would not and could not understand him, but which was always too ready to pass its judgment.

The whole course of his life was changed, and the most radical points of his nature brought out. He has known little of happiness, save that he had in triumph over the world.

Heat it Hot Sam.

Colonel McHatten went from Virginia to Illinois, in the early settlement of the country, when roadside inns were unknown, and every dweller in the wilderness kept a sort of traveler's home. The Colonel, by a lucky investment in wild land, had become in time a rich man—but he kept up his habits of hospitality, and if the guest was well to do in the world, he didn't object to turning an honest penny in that way.

One cold blustering winter evening, a horseman drew up at the house and asked accomodation for the night. A half grown lad answered in the affirmative and ushered him into the sitting room, where the great wood fire of itself gave a cordial welcome. After supper the landlord made his appearance for the first time. He was hearty and full, and as rosy as any boniface should be, but he was bent and crippled in his gait. He explained by saying that he had taken cold which had settled in his back.

"I don't mind the pain so much," he continued, "but it is so inconvenient. I have been recommended to try a poor man's plaster, and if you will excuse me, I will put it on. Sam! Samuel! Samuel! McHatten!"

"Here father" said the lad above mentioned, hastily swallowing a large piece of mince pie which he had been quietly eating.

"Here, Sam, my boy, heat this plaster for me, and put it on my back. Heat it hot, Sam."

Saying which he handed the plaster to his son and seating himself astride the chair, with his back to the fire, threw his suspenders back and his shirt over his head. "Now, Sam," said the Colonel, "if the poor man's plaster is hot you may put it on, but you may wait a little while; I'm afraid it's not hot enough. Heat it hot, Sam—heat it hot. Can you tell?" he continued to the traveller, who was seated in the corner—"can you tell me why this is the poor man's friend, hey? Give it up?"—laughing to himself "because it sticketh closer than a brother's cl'?

Poor Sam, who had been watching his chance to speak without interrupting his father now ventured to say;

"I guess it is hot enough now, father."

"What do you know about it?" said the old man testily.

"I say heat it hot, Sam—heat it hot."

Sam, armed with the plaster approached him and if my word can be taken, did clap it on. The man gave one yell like a wild Indian, and jumped clear off the chair kicking his old-fashioned britches off his feet and dancing around with pain. The traveler laughed until he cried, and the more noise he made the more he laughed. When the first agony was over, the Colonel began to swear, and our traveller thought it would be prudent to retire, lest he should share his wrath with Sam, who, he observed, was making good his distance."

The next morning, when leaving, he handed the Colonel five dollars, saying with a dry twinkle of the eye, "I don't want any change. It is cheap at that."

The following little story, with its moral, though it is the Macon (Georgia) Advertiser, is quite worthy to be enjoyed by the followers of good advice.

Follow a man and he will find him. Jones is a country of red hills and stone.—

As he lived pretty much by getting of loans, he was nothing but skin and bone, and his dog—a flat as his corn-bread—poor.

And his dog, a flat as his corn-bread, And he had about a dozen ... acres of land,

This man—such is his name—was poor Jones. He was aware that he had in old red hills and stones.

He could make nothing but yellowish cotton.

And what little cotton he had, that was bad, And he had nothing to live on, and he had nothing to eat.

And the longer he搜 the master he got, And he rose and he walked to the stable, And he followed to Tom to come there and in.

For to-morrow somewhere where the land was rich, And to get rid of cockleburrs, thistles, and such, And wasting their time on barren land.

So him and Tom they hitched up their mules. Protecting the folks were mighty tons That did stay in Georgia their life time out.

Just something a living, when all of them caught a mouthful, And papa's Texas where cotton would sprout.

At the time you could plant it in the land, And he drove by a house where a man named Brown.

Was living not far from the edge of the town. And he bought him a wagon and team, And said that seeing as money was scarce, And he sold his shovels were hard to face, Two dollars an acre would get the land.

They closed at a dollar and fifty cents. And Jones bought him a wagon and team, And he had a team and his women and truck.

And moved to Texas, which took his entire pole, with the best of luck. To get there and get him a little land.

But Brown asked him in, and he got him when he was sick with the rheumatism.

And when he was sick with the rheumatism.

It would seem that Gen.

Grant's highest ambition is to retire at the end of a second term with plenty of money and no poor kin.

Proceedings of the Council.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

MONDAY MAY 1, 1871.

Council Chamber.

Present.—Wm. Dean, J. D. Privett, L. W. Grant, Ed. L. Woodward, and Joe S. Montgomery, Councilmen.

The Intendent being absent, W. H. Dean was called to the chair.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

On motion, the Marshal was instructed to replace the fence broken on College street, caused by too close grading of said street.

On motion, a committee was appointed to wait on Messrs. Woodward & Disraeli, in regard to re-opening a street from "College" to "Depot" street.

Accounts allowed, W. C. McFarlan $5 50; Henry McElrath 40c; N. A. T. Wright $3 00.

Resolved, that the thanks of this body be tendered to Mrs. Thos. A. Walker, for a delicious, and bountiful treat of strawberries and cream with cake, so generously furnished the Council on yesterday afternoon.

On motion Council adjourned until next regular meeting.

JOE S. MONTGOMERY, Secy.

Pro tem.

MARSHAL, in Springfield Limestone county, Texas, on the 1st inst., by Rev. Dr. Kirk, Dr. J. H. McCain, formerly of Calhoun county, Ala., and Miss Ada Pendleton of Springfield, Texas.

We learn from people who live in that neighborhood, that for some nights past, a body of men have been amusing themselves by throwing rocks upon and into the residence of Mr. George Leach and others living in his immediate section. They sometimes continue this sport for hours, it is said. No cause is assigned.

We would advise Mr. Leach and all others similarly afflicted, to treat all such to a good dose of blue pills from the mouth of a double barrelled shot gun. One dose of such medicine well administered, will generally cure all such cowards.

Grady of the Rome Commercial has by the purchase of the Rome Daily, come into possession of State printing, said to amount to about five thousand dollars a year. He thinks it is really worth more than about eight hundred dollars a year, and will not accept more than that amount. The balance of say four thousand two hundred will be returned to the State Treasury or applied to charitable purposes as Judge Perry, in whose hands the matter is left, may direct.

While we admire Grady's pluck, we can't help but condemn his judgment, in a financial point of view.

We have been asked which is the best paying Post Office on our books.

It is nothing but justice to say that White Plains is by a long shot the best paying Post Office we have on our books. They generally keep up and year ahead.

Alexandria is perhaps next, though that office is due probably $3 00. Cross Plains follows, and clear off and arrange a spot at the Chalybeate spring for picnics this summer.

We have been requested to say that the people of Jacksonville are invited to meet, some day next week, at the graveyard, for the purpose of cleaning it up and beautifying it.

There are growing in Trenton, N. J., two cork trees raised from seeds sent out from Washington a few years ago by the post office. There are others in North Carolina and Florida.

Rural South Carolina.

The proprietor of this paper, the Jacksonville Republican, has one growing from the set of acorns he sowed, and is as large as both of them put together.

White Plains is the next largest package to Oxford, and is far ahead of any other P. O. in the country in prompt payment.

That office does scarcely nothing. The people of White Plains deserve great credit. It is a pleasure to labor for such people.

All those who do not avail themselves of our late offer and pay up back subscriptions with the next two weeks, will not be allowed to settle off at $2 a year as many of our patrons have done. By a settlement within the next two weeks, subscribers will save 25 per cent. of their indebtedness above that of a well bred donkey.

The Presbyterian congregation have painted the wood work of their excellent brick church building. It stands greatly to its beauty. If they will only go further and complete the Cupola, they will entitle themselves to the thanks of the town. Everybody will contribute. Let them take up a subscription. It won't hurt to try.

The Methodist church and Masonic hall has recently been painted and now presents a fairer appearance.

It is said that everybody, boys and girls, old and young, turn out next Wednesday and clear off and arrange a spot at the Chalybeate spring for picnics this summer.

The Whiting of Time.

Romance, we often told, is repeatedly found in real life. Another instance comes from Missouri. Conover Ainsworth committed suicide recently in that State under peculiar circumstances. During the war he had been a "bushwhacker" on the Union side. One of his exploits had been the burning of the home of General and Mrs. C. C. Cooper, a field in which he delighted.

While the flames were racing Ainsworth risked the efforts of a little girl, daughter of the farmer, to save some of the play things, which he interfered to prevent her from the quivering lips of death.

He became enamored of her, and her and her son were wedded in his recollection. She repudiated the attentions of the ex-bushwhacker met the little girl of former days. He became enamored of her, and her son was wedded in his recollection. She repudiated the attentions of the ex-bushwhacker.

For two years he followed her, and she would not have him. The woman, however, had a strong attachment to her son, and he could make no impression on her.

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MAY 27, 1871.

It seems that death has been busy in our midst of late. Again our town has experienced his visitation and this time Fielding Snow, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, has been called home. He died on Friday morning about half past ten o'clock. Although his death has been some time ago, it is still talked of; yet, its announcement will fall with a shock upon our immediate community and the people of Calhoun county, among whom he was universally known and esteemed. He was one of the earliest settlers of this portion of Alabama. Peace to his ashes!

Something that will Pay.

Lately narrow-gauge railroads have assumed quite an importance in the eyes of railroad men. It is because of their entire practicability and exceeding cheapness of construction. So cheap are they, that the expense of building a narrow-gauge railway between Jacksonville and any given point, would not be so great as building a plank or McAdams road to the same point. We see it suggested that one of these roads out from Selma to Summerville, a distance of eight miles, sons to avoid the deep mud which renders the present road between the two places almost impossible in the winter time. It is estimated that such a road will enhance the value of property in Summerville one hundred per cent. Of course then, people will say, the people of Summerville ought to build it. We can demonstrate the fact that such a road from this place, leading into the Checoocoo Valley, through the gorges of the mountains that now separate us, would be worth to Jacksonville, every year the entire cost of the road. No great amount of grading will be necessary. The narrow-gauge road can be run over almost any indication. Such a road would bring us in daily contact with the people of as rich and fertile a valley as there is in the State, and throw their entire trade peerlessly into Jacksonville. Hence everything shipped over the Selma & Dalton Railroad, going oncoming over the narrow gauge, would have to be re-handled. It would be a great artery, the healthy, daily, pulsation of which would invigorate, strengthen and build up Jacksonville.

It is estimated that the one from Selma to Summerville, a distance of eight miles, can be built for Seventy five thousand Dollars. If these figures be correct, then the one from this place, across our mountains, into the valley beyond, will not cost any more. By following the gorges, the grading will not be extremely heavy, and the cross ties grow ready to hand almost the entire length of the road. After we get it built and the iron laid, it will be an easy matter to get some capitalist to put rolling stock upon it. It will be one of the best paying roads in the world, according to amount of capital invested. The stock in it, would be worth one hundred per cent, premium the first year. Shall we have it? Let us hear from your gentlemen.

Speaking of these narrow gauge railroads, the New York Sun says:

"The experiment has been tried in Europe, of constructing railroads with rails as close together as one foot (11 inches), and those that go to three feet, and the rails have been so courageous as to assume, for this principle of economy, many advocates among both engineers and capitalists."

In Europe, a road with a gauge of 22 feet has been for some time in operation near Cleveland, Ohio."

The advantage claimed for the new gauge is the important one of vastly greater cheapness. In mountainous regions, especially, it has been shown that a road of two feet gauge can be built for ONE EIGHTH of the cost of a road of four feet eight and one-half inches gauge."

This is owing both to the diminished width required for cuttings, embankments on bridges, and to the fact that much sharper curves are practicable, permitting the road to follow more nearly the natural conformation of the country.

The Sun goes on further to show that such decided advantages as those already mentioned, that the narrow gauge gauge, in the ratio of dead weight to paying weight &c., some of which we may publish next week, if we succeed in arousing in the minds of our people any interest in this enterprise fraught with so much good to the people of Jacksonville and the Checoocoo valley.

From every part of South Alabama comes inquiries as to whether board can be had in Jacksonville, during the summer months. All prefer Jacksonville to any other point among the mountains, but an opinion prevails that board for no considerable number of people can be had here.

Now we all agree that it will be very desirable to have our South Alabama friends among us, this summer, both for the sake of their society, and for the additional amount of money that will be consequently circulated in our midst. But what housekeeper will first agree to take upon herself the additional trouble of keeping boarders, for a few weeks, for the general good of the town? Let it be once known in South Alabama, that Jacksonville will take 300 boarders during the summer months and we will get that number right away. Such a number would throw each and every month directly into the hands of our people, for board. Seven Thousand and five hundred Dollars. It is safe to say that as much would be spent with our merchants each month. With an additional circulation of Fifteen Thousand Dollars a month, for the summer season, in our village, things would begin to look something livelier. Shall we have it, or shall we go on as now, spiritless, and depress with business at a stand still and enterprise dead as a door nail? What say our people? We propose that all those who are willing to take boarders shall leave their names with Mr. Hammons, or at this office, within the next week, stating the number that can be taken, the price that will be charged &c.

The Cloud.

I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers.
From the seas and the streams;
I bear light shade for the leaves when laid
In their noon-day dreams.

From my wings are shaken the dews that awaken.

The Sweet Bird.

When rocked to rest on their mother's breast,

As she dances about the sun,

I will the flail of the flashing mail,

And when the green glades under,

And then again dissolve in rain,

And laugh as I pass in thunder.

The Soft Wind.

I sift the snows on the mountains below,

And all the great pines grow aghast;

While I sleep in the arms of the blast.

Splinter on the towers of my sky bowers,

Lightning, my pilot, sits.

In a cavern under is uttered the thunder.

Where it struggles and howls by fits

Over earth and ocean, with gentle motion.

This pilot is guiding me,

Lured by the love of the genii that move

In the depths of the purple sea;

Over the rills, and the crags, and the hills.

Over the lakes on the plains,

Wherever he dream, under mountain or storm.

The spirit he loves roams;

And I will the last kiss in heaven's blue smile.

Whilst he is dissolving in rains.

The Sanguine Sunrise.

Leaps the sun with his meteor eyes.

And his burning plumes outspread,

Leaps on the back of my sailing rack.

When the morning stars shine dead,

Whichever earth rocks and swings,

An eagle alit, one moment may sit

In the light of his golden wings.

And when sunset may break him from the sun beneath.

Its beams of rest and of love,

And the lightning pall of eve may fall.

From the depths of heaven above,

With wings folded I rest on mine airy nest.

As still as a brooding dove.

The Sanguine Sunrise.

Leaps the sun with his meteor eyes.

And his burning plumes outspread,

Leaps on the back of my sailing rack.

When the morning stars shine dead,

Whichever earth rocks and swings,

An eagle alit, one moment may sit

In the light of his golden wings.

And when sunset may break him from the sun beneath.

Its beams of rest and of love,

Proceedings of the Council.

JACKSONVILLE ALA.

MONDAY MAY 22, 1871.

Council Chamber.

Present.—

Wm. Dean, J. D. Privett, L. W.

Grant, Ed. L. Woodward, and Joe S.

Montgomery, Councilmen.

The intended being absent, J. D.

Privett was called to the chair.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

The committee on opening street from

"Dept" to "College" street, asked for, and were granted further time, in which to make their report.

On motion—the petition of the citizens praying for the use of the city nucleal cart, to improve the grounds about the Chalybeate Springs—Granted.

On motion—the above Ordinance was laid over until next meeting.

On motion—the following preamble and resolution, was adopted.

Whereas—eltins for services purporting to have been performed, previous to the meeting of the present council, many of such claims being neither dated, nor itemized, nor bearing certificate of any former Marshal, or any member of any previous council, and

Whereas—the present council did on the 13th of March by advertisement, call in all outstanding claims against the incorporation, for the purpose of ascertaining the indebtedness of the town, and

Whereas,—but few responded to said advertisement.

Therefore it is resolved—that after the expiration of thirty days, no such accounts, unless before that time approved by the council, will be taken in payment of taxes, or any other dues, due the incorporation; nor will any such accounts be approved by the present council, unless the same be presented correctly dated, itemized and bearing certificate of correctness of same from the Marshal, or other authorized person, accompanied by the affidavit of the claimant, as to its justness.

On motion Council adjourned until next regular meeting.

JOE S. MONTGOMERY, Secy.

Pro tem.

On the first part of this week, the good people of our town, as per announcement, met at the Chalybeate Spring and handsomely fixed it up. Now let us give one more day to the decoration of our graveyard. Who will fix a day? We will take pleasure in publishing the call.

Hundreds and thousands of bushels of fruit will be lost this year, in Calhoun county alone, if our people do not make extensive arrangements for drying. We suggest that each in every neighborhood erect furnaces to be free to all during the peach season. Thus thousands of dollars worth of dried fruit can be saved, that, if our people depend upon the sown and uncertain process of drying in the sun, may be lost. One good peach crop is worth as much as one good corn crop. Our peach crops fall about four years out of every five. We ought to be as particular to save the one as the other. In fact the argument in favor of the peach crop, seeing as we do not have as great regularity in it.

Tribute of Respect.

The following tribute of respect was paid to the memory of Mrs. WILLETT TURNLEY, by the Sunday School of the M. E. Church South, at Jacksonville, Ala., May 21st, 1871.

Whereas—Death has visited our school and Mrs. WILLETT TURNLEY has been called from labor to reward;

Resolved—That although we cannot understand why one so richly endowed, and so useful to the church and society, should be stricken down in the very morning of life; we meekly kiss the rod that chastens us, being assured that what our Father doeth is not only right but good.

Resolved—That in her death, this school has lost an efficient teacher, the church a valuable member, society an ornament, the poor and afflicted a faithful friend.

Resolved—That in her death, this school has lost an efficient teacher, the church a valuable member, society an ornament, the poor and afflicted a faithful friend.

Resolved—That we tender the family and friends of the deceased, our heart felt sympathy.

Resolved—That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the school and a copy sent to the S. S. Visitors and the Jacksonville REPUBLICAN, for publication.

L. W. CANNON, ELIZA LAIRD, HATTIE DEAVENPORT, COM. B. I. HARRISON, THOS. H. DEAVENPORT.

Mr. W. H. Morris, on Thursday, sent us a cake of Chocolate, labelled the "only genuine brand in the U. S." We found it "very good." He has some more.

At the next meeting of the Town Council, a plan by which we can have water works will, we understand, be submitted to that body, by them to be voted on and then referred to the people for ratification or rejection. Water works of some sort Jacksonville must have.

Reports say that the "rockists" have changed the scene of their operations to the more Western part of our county. Several men near Olathe creek have had their houses sacked, as we learn.

Mr. Rosenberg, our recently arrived merchant, has left us with the "New York Morning Post" printed Nov. 7th, 1873, about 874 years ago. It is a curiousity.

We invite our friends in every part of the County to correspond with us by letter, giving us all the news in each and every section of the county, including the doctor and officers, are all convalescent. The particularities of this state are not very well known by the people.

The Explorers on the Atlantic side have suffered terribly from sickness, but fortunately there have been no deaths. Those on the Pacific side, including the doctor and officers, are all convalescent. The particularities of this state are not very well known by the people.

Yesterday morning the solemn ceremony of confirmation was conferred upon a number of adults, by Archibishop McGrory, in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Owing to the large number, comparatively few spectators could be admitted, and again the organist discoursed them music befitting the occasion. After the girls had all received the sacrament, and after the organist had concluded, first repeating the one record, in subdued voices, the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' Creed. Many of those waiting outside were then admitted, and after kneeling in prayer went forward to the vacant seats to witness the confirmation of the boys. A large number of the boys were white pants and black jackets, and sashes gracefully disposed. The alters were very beautifully decorated with a large number of tapers.

MR. GRANT: The friends of Sargeant

Griffin Esq., James Crow and C. G. Morgan, believing that they will make excellent Commissioners, would be glad to see their names announced as candidates. Will you please give this one insertion in your paper?

The following is probably the best pun ever got off—the most remarkable specimen of fine humor—the keenest wit that ever emanated from the brain or dropped from the pen of man. It is clipped from the Livingstone Journal. The editor ought to be cut off suddenly now while yet the glory glimmering all through the following magnificent specimen of jocularity, yet rests upon him. But we must not keep our readers out of the enjoyment of it any longer, by any platitude of praise that we can offer it. It speaks for itself in such an irresistibly comic manner, that it needs no eulogistic introduction. It is, undoubtedly, the very finest spark of humor—the most brilliant flash of fun that the English language has ever yet conveyed to the apprehension of man. SURPRISE OF DYING.

"She is dead!" they said to him. "Come away; kiss her and leave her, thy love is clay!" They smoothed her tresses of dark brown hair; On her forehead of stone they laid it fair,

Over her eyes which gazed too much, They drew the lids with a gentle touch With a tender touch they closed up well The sweet, thin lips that had secrets to tell,

About her brow and her beautiful face. They tied her veil and her marriage lace.

And drew on her white feet her white silk shoes; Which were the whitest no eye could choose!

And over her bosom they crossed her hands— "Come away," they said, "God understands!"

And there was silence; and nothing there, But silence, and scents of elegance,

And jasmine, and rose, and rosemary. And they said, "As a lady should lie, lies she."

And they held their breath as they left the room With a shudder, to glance at its stillness and gloom;

But he who loved her too well to dread, The sweet, the stately, and the beautiful dead,

He lit his lamp and took the key And turned it. Alone again, he and she;

He and she; but she would not speak, Though he kissed her in the old place, the quiet cheek.
